Beatbox 101 (Vocal Percussion)

Instructor: Anthony Lamarr a.k.a The Soundshaker, Singer and songwriter

Beat-boxing is a form of vocal percussion primarily involving the art of producing drum beats, rhythm, and musical sounds using one's mouth, lips, tongue, and voice. Beat-boxing today is connected with hip-hop culture, being one of "the elements", although it is not limited to hip-hop music. The term "beat-boxing" is sometimes used to refer to vocal percussion, used by most college and professional a cappella groups, which attempts a more complete facsimile of the pop music that these groups primarily perform. Vocal percussionists use three basic sounds: bass drum, snare drum, and cymbal. Variations on these sounds can be used to approximate other elements of a drum kit. Over the course of one week, Anthony Lamarr will be your guide as you explore the world of beat-boxing!
